#1 ISIJ 2022/ International organizing Committee at the opening of ISIJ

Welcome from head of the Main Department of Education of the city of Dushanbe

In 2022, the Cup of the International School of Informatics for juniors has been held for the fifth time. After the pandemic, juniors from different countries are starting to meet again in creative competitions. Computer science is becoming the leading subject for children in the IT era, and all countries of the world are experiencing a very high need for professional programmers. Support for juniors who are passionate about Olympiad Informatics, involving teachers in coaching in IT areas is an important task that we solve together at ISIJ.

The Republic of Tajikistan invited young programmers to Dushanbe to test themselves in various competitions, to see the creative potential of schoolchildren from different countries. We hope that all teams from different countries that join will get useful experience, and an IT club will appear in each school to attract children to the programming profession!

We are sure that cooperation with ISIJ will help our schools to be in the trend of international experience in computer science!

We look forward to seeing all participants in sunny Dushanbe!

Welcome from the President of international School in Informatics for juniors

Dear colleagues, participants, teachers and coaches!

The international school of Informatics for juniors is held online this year.

For Informatics, this is not a new collaboration solution, but of course the camp-school environment helps us all work as a team. I hope that the online form will not destroy our team spirit.

To do this, I suggest that coaches and teachers will do actively cooperate in the Coaching Council of the School! And I wish students to cultivate the Olympic spirit based on the code of honor by distance working, from home, independently and responsibly participating in tours and the School Cup.
